

ISBN: 978-1-983357-69-5

SKU: 937

COST: $24.95

AUTHOR: Dennis
Demuth, Ph.D

Spirit-Directed Education: A New Approach to Education

The intent of this work is to present a new approach to education that goes beyond educating the mind and body and focuses on the heart or spirit.

The book looks at the role of the human conscience, the recreated spirit, the human will, and the Holy Spirit, and how these interrelate in Spirit-directed education.

Key Benefits

- Learn how change requires a willing mind, follows the perception of the recreated spirit, requires the submission of the will, new ways of thinking, and being able to deal with a rebellious body.
- Know what it takes to establish and maintain a Spirited-directed classroom—going beyond the expected, establishing a climate of change, creating an awareness of God, setting up an orderly environment, teaming up with the Holy Spirit, releasing the anointing, speaking words that bring success, exercising authority, to name a few. Improve staff management, evaluation and supervision
- Learn the nine ingredients that produce a Spirit-directed teacher, as well as thirteen expectations of a Spirit-directed teacher. Establish a consistent system for administering student discipline
- See how to help students renew their mind, and how to feed their new nature. You will learn eight methods for training students how to hate evil. See how to implement various polices through Imprementation Strategies.
- Assist students in establishing a sensitivity to the voice of the Holy Spirit, the importance of boundaries and expectations, and how to train students to respond to conviction.
- Learn five strategies for encouraging right speaking, how to foster a "can-do" attitude, and how to build a positive self-image and spiritual-image. Train students to above the influences of this present world and to become mighty in spirit.